Can This Be Our "Kelly"?

Carmel old-timers who have known him and his family for some twenty-five years are pleased but not unduly surprised that Vice Admiral Richmond Kelly Turner is making so outstanding a success of his job in the Central Pacific; but they are somewhat confused by the flood of "personality" stories about him and the pictures purporting to be of him that is inundating the country now that the war correspondents and the feature writers for the national magazines have "discovered" him.

Outstanding example of the sort of thing that is causing Carmel citizens to blink is the article that appeared in Time the early part of this month. On the cover of this same issue of the magazine was a reproduction of a painting by Boris Chaliapin captioned "Admiral Turner of the Central Pacific" which looked out at passers-by from the local magazine stands unrecognized until someone happened to read the caption. This is not surprising as his Carmel friends hardly expected to find the broad-faced, hale and energetic officer represented as an emaciated, ethereal octogenarian (Turner is young as admirals go) with a wolf-like lift to his upper lip and NO GLASSES! To add to the confusion, the subcaption reads, "His crocodiles crawl toward burnished isles."

"You don't suppose Kelly has taken to animal training?" one Carmel citizen wondered uneasily.

A cover picture of This World, San Francisco Chronicle Sunday supplement, coming out about the same time was more recognizable.

The article in the Time issue that carried the cover picture fell into line with the general tendency among correspondents to build up a Terrible Turner legend, representing him as keeping the pants scared off his entire command from mess boy to gold braid officers, and did the story in true Time manner with a free use of blood, guts and other such he-man words now in high favor, calling him a son of a you know what which is now supposed to be an expression of admiration among us tough boys in the Pacific.

The Pine Cone-Cymbal slipped badly on its reporting of Admiral Turner. We saw him last summer when he was home on leave and in writing up our interview with him failed entirely to contribute toward the Terrible Turner legend. Of course, the national magazines and the foreign correspondents had not yet "discovered" him and the Terrible Turner legend had not yet been invented, so how were we to know that this affable, gracious officer who out of sheer kindness found time out of his short leave home to show us photographs of a South Pacific naval engagement and explain patiently so we could have a story for the Pine Cone was a hell for leather, rip roaring sea dog and the terror of his subordinates.

We wonder if this tendency of

$21,925 Raised at Carmel Filipino War Bond Rally

Carmel accepted with enthusiasm the invitation of the Filipino community of the Monterey Peninsula to join in a bond rally dance at the Mission Ranch Barn Monday night when $21,925 in bonds were sold in auction for prizes donated by Carmel business men and other American friends of the local Filipinos.

It is the highest figure yet reached at a bond sale rally on the Peninsula.

A Royden Martin water-color contributed by the Carmel Art association went to Cliff Jones for the purchase of $2,500 worth of bonds. An East Indian sari, the gift of Mrs. J. O. Greenan, brought $1500 from Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Yeban. Bertie, the small son of Mr. and Mrs. P. Macahilig, claimed a Javanese sarong, donated by Mrs. Bert Dienelt, for $1600 in bonds. A bottle of Old Grand Dad Whiskey presented by Harrison Godwin went for $1000 to Paul Swanson who redonated it so that it could be sold again

OVER THE TOP

Figures which are not even final show that Carmel's quota of $410,820 in bonds of the Fourth War Loan were not only subscribed, but were oversubscribed. When the drive ended officially the night of February 15, Carmel citizens had purchased the grand total of $717,737 in War Bonds. Not only that, the quota of Series E bonds, which had been fixed at $139,812 had been far surpassed, in fact had gone by the $200,000 mark and was still mounting.

for $800. A lemon pie baked by Mrs. Lynn Hodges, wife of the manager of the "Barn," was bought by the Mission Ranch Club "to keep it in the family." Prizes ranging from champagne to beach slacks went for $800, $500, $300 purchases in bonds, with members of the Filipino Community and the Filipino regiment the heaviest buyers.

Auctioneer was Tony Lawrence while P. A. McCreery, assisted by Sam Coleman, handled the bond sales.

Though the bond auctioning was the high point of the evening, the Filipino Community provided a novel program which met with the enthusiastic approval of their guests. Mrs. M. Yeban, Mrs. C. Gonzales, in their picturesque costumes, partnered by Sgt. R. Menes and P. Macahilig danced their native Carinosa. The Filipino orchestra played several numbers. Sgt. Joe Mahusay sang American and

John Clague Now Lt. Commander

Word that their son, John Clague, had been promoted to the rank of Lieutenant Commander in the U. S. Navy, arrived for Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Clague last Sunday, February 13.

"Thirteen is lucky for us!" they declare, for the notification coincided with the christening ceremonies of their first grandchild, Robert Bruce Young, son of Lt. and Mrs. Robert Young, the former Joan Margaret Clague, at which the young naval officer was standing sponsor by proxy as godfather. Following the christening, performed by Rev. Albert Clay in St. Mary's-by-the-Sea Episcopal Church, Pacific Grove, a reception was held at the Santa Fe street home of Mr. and Mrs. Clague, where toasts were offered both for Robert Bruce Young, born at the Peninsula Community Hospital on December 27, and his

Whittlesey Announces Candidacy

Eben Whittlesey, local attorney, is the first Carmel citizen to offer himself as candidate for city council. Yesterday he announced his intention of running for one of the three council seats to be filled at the April 11 election.

Vice-president of the Business Association, Vice-president of the Musical Arts Club, Member of the Executive Council for the Community and War Chest, Director of Red Cross, Lion's Club director and member of All Saints' Parish, Whittlesey has participated actively in the civic and social life of Carmel since he came here and established a home for his mother on 10th and Mission streets in the summer of 1942. His residence on the Peninsula dates back to February 1940 when he came to visit with his uncle, Col. Roger S. Fitch, until recently commandant of Fort Ord.

True to Carmel tradition, as a candidate Whittlesey has no "platform" to offer, but he has ideas that he would like to see realized.

In outlining them for the Pine Cone-Cymbal yesterday he said that he believed that post-war planning should get under way as soon as possible. He thinks a definite plan of street improvement should be included, also footpaths and more adequate street lighting. He wants to see the recreation program of the past

Mrs. Prince Favors Military Rules for G.O.P. Campaign

By RUTH GOULD

A capacity audience attended the Lincoln's Day tea sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula Republican Women's club in the Carmel Girl Scout house, Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Helen Clark Cranston, president of the club, presided at the affair.

Mrs. Eugene Prince of San Francisco delivered the principal address. She urged the formulating of a number of basic, clean-cut issues upon which the Republican party could wage the coming election campaign. She advocated, among other things, the preservation of a system of American free enterprise and the safeguarding of the independence of the federal judiciary.

Mrs. Prince favored the adapting of military rules to political campaigning by: 1. Building up the morale of your side. 2. Breaking up the morale of the enemy. 3. Attracting the support of the neutrals.

S. F. B. Morse, Monterey Peninsula business executive criticized policies of the Roosevelt administration and analyzed important considerations which will arise in the post-war period.

In the club's business session, officers were elected for the coming year. They are: Mrs. Cranston, chairman; Mrs. J. A. Trowbridge of Pacific Grove, first vice chairman; Mrs. H. M. Roberts of Seaside, second vice chairman; Mrs. Howard D. Hatton of Carmel, secretary; Mrs. George W. Simpson, Pacific Grove, treasurer.

At the close of the meeting, tea, coffee and light refreshments were

Kinsell Thinks P. O. Clerks Bright Even If Pens Are Dull

Judge Dudley Kinsell, who made the post office a present of a box of pen points last Christmas, now has a high regard for the I. Q. of post office employees if not for the writing equipment the department furnishes its patrons.

He arrived in the Pine Cone-Cymbal office yesterday, amazement in his eyes and an envelope in his hand which was addressed in the following fashion: "The Honorably Dudley Kinsell." Under this was pasted a cartoon clipped from a magazine picturing a group of artists, male and female, pursuing their profession at their easels set up on a hillside. Following the cartoon were the words, "By-the-Sea," and winding it all up was, "California."

The letter was postmarked San Jose the preceding day and had arrived here without any hitch whatsoever, indicating that the quick witted clerks in the San Jose post office perceived just like that that a picture of artists means Carmel.

The Judge said the letter is from a "wild Irishman by the name of Neal McGinty."

suggest that in certain sections of the book he had failed to capture the emotion of a situation she was speedily put in her place. "Ah, but I do," retorted Flavin modestly.

As a concession to any wounded feeling he might have caused, Flavin ended by dismissing the critics as "youthful and inexperienced." The program ended with meek recommendations for the book from all the critics.

A clipping from a New York paper, arriving here this week indicates that Carmel's top-flight writer, Martin Flavin, who since the publication of his Harper Prize Winning Novel, "Journey in the Dark," has himself made a journey into darkest New York, apparently finds the natives harmless when kept firmly in hand.

The article, describing Flavin keeping the natives firmly in hand with the characteristic Flavin flare for keeping natives firmly in hand, follows:

The Critics Meet The Author This Time

The critics didn't have a chance last night on The Author Meets the Critics (WHN, Wednesday, 8). Presented with the task of commenting on Martin Flavin's prize-winning novel, "Journey in the Dark," they barely had time to open their mouths before Flavin had them by the throat.

The critics involved were Edith Walton, Joseph Freeman, author of several novels of his own, and John J. McCaffery, editor. When they had completed their preliminary remarks, Flavin was ready with a verdict. "Childish," he declared with finality.

Remarking of his book "I don't think there is anything wrong with it," Flavin did concede that the last part might be "too symmetrical." Miss Walton promptly agreed with him.

"Why didn't you say so?" demanded Flavin witheringly.

Miss Walton, indeed, bore the brunt of Flavin's unrestrained contempt. When she ventured to

Nine Boy Scouts Receive Awards

Awards were given to nine Carmel boys at the Boy Scout Court of Honor held in the Scout hall on Wednesday evening.

Master of Ceremonies for the occasion was Mr. J. W. Getsinger, superintendent of Carmel schools, and members of Troop 39 opened the program, which was closed by Troop 86.

Two members of Troop 86 received awards, Clayton Neill, Jr., advanced from a Star to a Life Scout and was presented with a merit badge for work in safety, reading and civics. Eric Leffingwell was cited for his work in safety.

Seven Scouts from Troop 39 were honored. Rod Dewar advanced from a second to a first class Scout. Pat Casey received a merit badge for carpentering, woodwork and woodturning and became a first class Scout, as did also Charles Williams, David Hudson, Rowland Calder, Ray Wer-muth and Lou McCreery, who in addition received an award for swimming, woodturning, wood-work and life saving.

R. ELLIS ROBERTS READS

An interested group of twenty-five assembled on Monday evening at the home of Miss Helene Lehmann on Santa Lucia and Lincoln street, under the sponsorship of the Women's Auxiliary of All Saints' Church, to hear a second reading by Mr. R. Ellis Roberts from the writings of C. S. Lewis. Mr. Lewis, a Fellow of Magdalen College, Oxford, once an atheist, has recorded the experience of his conversion to the Anglican church in two volumes, now being widely read and discussed. His first appeared under the title, Screwtape Letters, and the latter, The Case for Christianity, subject of Mr. Roberts' present readings, is a reprint of talks broadcast throughout England over BBC.

uncle, a Lieutenant Commander in the U. S. Navy at the age of 23. John Clague, who came to the Peninsula from New Zealand with his parents in 1922, entered the California Nautical School at Tiburon following his graduation from Monterey high school. Two months after the completion of his course he was commissioned an ensign in the Navy in July, 1940, and assigned as divisional officer aboard ship, rising through the post of chief gunnery officer to that of navigator, then executive officer. In the course of his service he has had two leaves, of ten days each. In November, 1942, he was married in Carmel to the former Miss Esten Shrieve of San Diego, who is making her home for the present with her parents in that city, and was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Clague in Carmel last December.

Lt. Commander Clague's sister, mother of the newly christened infant, was married in July, 1942, in Salinas, to Lt. Robert Young, U. S. Army, following her graduation from the University of California and a post-graduate course in kindergarten teaching at the San Jose State College. She came to make her home with her parents in Carmel last June, when Lt. Young departed for overseas duty. Present for her son's christening were his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Young of San Leandro.

Lieutenant Commander Clague belongs to the third generation of uniformed service. His father, Joseph C. Clague, is a veteran of World War I, in which he served with the famed Anzacs on the Gallipoli front. Mrs. Clague is the daughter of a British Army officer stationed for many years in India. Two of John Clague's maternal uncles, veterans of the last war, are now serving with the British armed forces, one of them having participated in the action at Dunkirk.

William Justima, whose sequence of 31 poems, entitled Private Papers, comes next month off the press of Duell, Sloan and Pearce, returned to San Francisco on Tuesday after spending a week as the guest of Mr. Noel Sullivan at Hollow Hills Farm.

Mr. Justima, who has already won considerable recognition as a poet through the publication of his work in Atlantic Monthly, Poetry and in the New Yorker, is at present doing rehabilitation work with the Red Cross in San Francisco. He designed and has just completed the organization of a new project through which service men in the seven San Francisco hospitals will be encouraged and guided in creative writing. Scrapbooks have been prepared to stimulate interest and the co-operation of journalists, professors and editors has been secured to foster the enterprise. Typists have volunteered their services to prepare resulting manuscripts.

Drama Students Strive to Keep Alive Tradition

The new Adult School Drama Class which meets Mondays and Thursdays at 7:30 in Sunset auditorium got under way to a good start this week under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth Stevens.

Stagecraft, control of the body and problems connected with speech and voice production are being taken up in a systematic way at the meetings so that the work may be useful to teachers, lawyers, lecturers and those who have radio aspirations as well as to those who want to participate in dramatic productions.

From time to time the group plans to put on plays to demonstrate what they have learned in their class work.

The group feels that Carmel has a long and honorable tradition to sustain as a center of dramatic activity and to keep this alive and foster its growth under war time condition presents a number of knotty problems but they are convinced that the difficulties can be overcome and are issuing an appeal for all like-minded citizens to join them in the effort.

"No purposeless motion" was the underlying thought of an amusing dramatic problem in foot-control which Mrs. Stevens set the class at its first meeting.

"No purposeless emotion" was the dominant note of the second lesson at which the voice was considered.

Sincerity, simplicity and absolute control of the medium by which the actor intends to convey thought or emotion are the objectives Mrs. Stevens sets before her class.

A.A.U.W. Holds Second Round Table Talk On Race Problem

That discrimination against the Negroes has reached a critical point which must be settled soon was agreed at a round table discussion on racial relations at the home of Mrs. O. V. Ward in Pacific Grove on Wednesday, February 9, when more than a dozen members of the Peninsula met to continue the discussion begun at the meeting on January 18. Two members of the panel which conducted the opening round table were ill, but this week's talks were led by Mrs. Ward, Mrs. Dwight L. Morrow Jr., and Mrs. Clay Orear, with other members contributing freely.

The group agreed that the Negro is not receiving full constitutional rights to education and in opportunities to earn a living, while poll tax and other laws, especially in the south, interfere with citizenship rights. These problems demand the attention of every intelligent citizen if serious difficulty is to be avoided.

The question was raised as to whether the A.A.U.W. itself does not discriminate in its membership requirements, with positive opinion expressed to the contrary, and one member agreed to write to headquarters in Washington, D. C., for definite information on the point. Individual cases of objection to colored girls in Girl Scout troops were related, one such case on this Peninsula, although the organization's rules do not support such feeling. The USO came in for considerable discussion in this connection, as it was felt to be undemocratic to maintain a separate recreation organization for a small minority of the soldiers.

The instance was given of the young woman canteen worker at Fort Ord who was dismissed immediately for refusing to serve a Negro soldier. In the USO, it was agreed that chief objection to one organization for all soldiers would come from mothers of the young hostesses who entertain and dance with the soldiers.

Unjust treatment of great Negro educators, scientists, and gifted singers was cited as showing the need for taking a stand for a genuinely democratic attitude. Recent injustices toward Marian Anderson and Roland Hayes were related, and tribute was paid to George Washington, Carver and other great leaders of the race. A colored scientist discovered the method of separating and preserving blood plasma for use with wounded soldiers, and yet blood from members of the race will not be accepted by the Red Cross blood bank.

Yet there is a bright side to the whole picture; the fact that many groups are studying the situation, facing the facts and trying to overcome their prejudices is hopeful. In the Deep South itself there is among the younger white people a movement on foot to abolish racial discrimination and to help the down-trodden people to education, opportunity and a better standard of living. One book by a southern educator, of the University of North Carolina, presents the facts honestly: Race and Rumors of Race, by Odum. Among other publications mentioned are the booklet, The Races of Mankind (recently withdrawn from sale to soldiers) with its graphic proof that there is no pure race; Preface to Racial Understanding, by Charles Johnson; Dust Tracks on the Road, by Thurston; To Stem This Tide; Twelve Million Black Voices; and above all, the biography of Dr. Carver.

Only Two Weeks To Register for City Election

Registration of voters for the city election April 6 closes March 2, Camilla Daniels, newly appointed registrar for Carmel said yesterday.

Those who voted in the last primaries or in the last general election and have not changed their precinct since, need not register again for the city election nor for the forthcoming primaries and general election.

Those who failed to vote in the last primaries or general, or who have moved into another precinct must register. Requirements in general for registration are one year's residence in the state, ninety days in the county and forty days in the precinct. Exception to the last requirements occurs when a registered voter moved from one precinct to another in the same city within 40 days of an election in which case he may go back to his old precinct to vote.

Carmel voters who will be out of town at the time of the city election may obtain absentee ballots by applying in writing to City Clerk Peter Mawdsley between March 22 and April 6.

In addition to Miss Daniels who will register voters in her office, the reception room to Eben Wittlesey's law office in Las Tejas building, Ocean and Mission, Don Staniford, for years Carmel registrar, will continue to sign up voters at his Drug Store, Ocean and San Carlos.

Virtue Rampant in Carmel Last Month

Crime and punishment were at low ebb in Carmel last month. Fines, that average $400 a month for the entire year, fell to $138.50 in January, Judge George P. Ross' report to the city council shows, listing $50 assessed for a disturbance of the peace, $25.00 each for two violations of the rabies quarantine and $38.50 for miscellaneous traffic violations.

Police report shows a total of six arrests for the month and 45 traffic citations issued.

GUARANTEED 2 YEARS

For Ice Boxes, Gas or Electrical Refrigerators

GREATEST DISCOVERY

Here's the greatest discovery since electrical refrigerators. It actually improves the effectiveness of your refrigerator, whether it is an ice box, gas refrigerator or electrical refrigerator.

PUT ONIONS BESIDE YOUR BUTTER

With a REFRIG-O-MASTER, you can put onions, butter, milk, cantaloupes, citrus fruits—all of the problem foods right next to one another and the flavor or aroma of one doesn't affect the others. No more jar covers, or lids, or wrapping to do.

MORE OF THOSE IMPORTANT VITAMINS

REFRIG-O-MASTER prevents dehydration, too. It reduces meat shrinkage and retards the wilting of vegetables. You get more of those important vitamins out of your food, too, with a REFRIG-O-MASTER. Oxidation and dehydration are reduced and a higher vitamin potency is preserved in the food. Bring your refrigerator up to date. These benefits alone would be worth $5.85, the price of a REFRIG-O-MASTER, but add to that that a REFRIG-O-MASTER gives longer life to your motor, cuts down on the power consumption and operating time. That the intervals between defrosting are much longer because the ice and frost accumulate slower. REFRIG-O-MASTER has no moving parts, is complete in itself. All of this magic is in a compact unit 5 by 9 inches and only an inch-and-one-half thick. Bring your refrigerator up to date. REFRIG-O-MASTER is guaranteed for two years.

A Soldier Artist's Sunday Morning

Negro shacks drowsing in the sunshine replaced blue dawn breaking over the greasewood as subject for the brush of Carmel Artist Royden Martin lately transferred from the California desert to Camp Van Dorn, Mississippi, according to the following account of how a soldier artist spends his Sunday mornings in the Van-Guard, Camp newspaper.

Meanwhile, his exhibit shown through January at the Salinas Air Base Library through the courtesy of the Carmel Art association, is now at Stanford for a one-man show starting February 1.

By T/SGT. JOHN T. LYNCH
(Co. D, 605th Engr. Cam. Bn.)

Each Sunday morning, shortly after dawn, when the rest of the 605th Engineer Camouflage Battalion personnel are still snug in their GI beds sleeping off their respective PX beer hangovers, two dogfaces, complete with light packs and canteens, steal quietly out of the barracks and wander down the company street to 5th Avenue.

Here they pause while one produces a coin—if not too far on the dismal side of payday—and flips it smartly. The other mutters "Heads" or "Tails." The winner might then say, "Today we head North." And they duly head North.

A casual onlooker (if there is anybody else in Camp Van Dorn screwy enough to be up, on his own accord, at such an hour on Sunday morning) would think they were two extremely sad sacks going to great lengths in bucking for Section Eights. Or that they were on some cruel sergeant's "S" list.

But neither guess would be correct, or even a reasonable facsimile. For this break-of-day rite, rain or shine, mud or dust, is performed by two well known artists bent not only in keeping on the ball in their civilian profession but in capturing with brush, paint and ink, the beauty and charm of the Old South. (Too, the very charming prices both of the boys get for their completed works have a bit to do with it.) So far they have found enough material within only two or three miles from the heart of camp to keep them busy for a year.

The two soldier-artists work on the same subjects, although in different mediums. S/Sgt. Dorlon A. Peckham, striving for the more personalized and detailed drawings, renders his versions in pen and ink. His series is being made for a chain of newspapers, the originals going to the Reno Gazette.

S/Sgt. Royden Martin works in his favorite medium, water-color. These paintings will go, for the most part, to his usual patrons, with a few to be used by a national advertising agency.

S/Sgt. Peckham is a graduate of the National Academy of Design, New York, and the Berkeley Arts and Crafts College. His first art job was making those well known posters for the Standard Oil Company. Then he went in for newspaper work and advertising layouts, and for a couple of years before getting his Greetings from the President, had his own Art Service and Galleries in Reno.

The day S/Sgt. Peckham drew the little shack, just South of camp, he had his first chance to really see a Southern negro family. "I can't understand it," he say. "They are so happy and seemingly care-free, and, despite the lack of visible means of support, they had an ancient jalopy which, according to the owner, 'Géts us heah an' yon—an' we never go no farther than 'at, anyhow'."

S/Sgt. Martin, whose water-colors are a joy to behold, was born and reared in California's famed city of art, Carmel. He was studying art from teachers of world renown when only 13 years old. He spent two years at the California School of Fine Arts in San Francisco and then got a job doing quick paintings of cus-

POETRY

SONNETS TO THE CHANNEL ISLANDS OF CALIFORNIA
I SAN CLEMENTE

*These black volcanic walls are sheer and high;
Against them, all the sea can do is roar,
But brutal splendor haunts the men that ply
Their fishing boats in gales along the shore.
The vessel heaves and crashes as the spume
Of foam and cloud bends backward from dark caves,
But waterfalls arouse each canyon room
With silver noises plunging to the waves.
How starkly death and beauty here are wed!
The instant that the east wind flings a cloud
Of amethyst on mountains colored lead
The ship is cracking in a spindrift shroud:
For San Clemente is the east wind's own;
Its flint-hard headlands are a siren's throne.*

—S./SGT. MARCUS Z. LYTLE

ANCIENT WIND AND DESERT HILL

*In this far place one hears the ancient wind
Croon through the cactus groves on hill and plain—
Softly, with fragrant breath repressed and thinned,
As though remembering a loved refrain;
Yet I have heard it crowding up this height,
Uninfluenced by threat of sudden rain,
Have fled before its stubborn wrath—the might
And terror of its wild and furious will—
When I with small things cowered in the night,
A prisoner as dawn came up the hill.*

*For this hill lies where border mountains loom
Against an azure sky; unmottled, clear;—
Secluded and remote from cries of doom
Heard half around a world of grief and fear.
Repose is here that only deserts know,
And one partakes of it where stars come near,
As though to touch the peaks of indigo
When dusk surrounds a solitary door;—
For then the ancient wind subdued and low,
Entreats the soul to peace . . . one asks no more.*

—GRACE DICKINSON SPERLING

STARS

*Vexed by unanswered problems of a life
To which he came untutored and alone
Man, questioning looks above—
Nor can the message of the seer
Nor any thought of finite mind
Give answer of a hope—
Only in Mystery Sublime,
In Beauty Absolute does he find Peace
Deep as the quiet light of Stars.*

—JOSEPHINE MILDRED BLANCH

AND YET ABUNDANCE . . .

*She had little of what the world calls good,
A cot at night, and simple food;
But she felt rich beyond her share—
She had beauty, sight, and the fields were fair.*

REVIEWS

tomers who came into the O'Connor, Moffatt Department Store.

After a few months he decided that the belligerent faces of hefty women bargain-hunters was not much fun. So Martin started his water-color painting in earnest. One of his paintings won First Prize at the California State Fair in 1941. Then came the draft.

S/Sgt. Martin claims that the head of the darky family, whose shack he did in water-color while S/Sgt. Peckham was doing the pen-and-ink, was the most sensible art critic he had ever met. He was struck, he says, by the utter simplicity of the man's criticism. "When I finished the painting," Martin explains, "I showed it to the old man, who looks like something Central Casting sent out for 'Gone With the Wind.'"

"He studied the picture for a while, silently brooding. Then he took off his battered hat, scratched his head and muttered with fervor, 'Wa'l, shut mah mouf. Yessuh, shut mah massive mouf.'"

Morgan Exhibit at Stanford

Miss M. De Neale Morgan and her sister Mrs. Jeanie M. Klenke, drove to Palo Alto yesterday to be present at the opening in the Stanford Art gallery of an exhibit of 48 M. De Neale Morgan oils. Pedro de Lemos, director of the Stanford gallery, who has arranged the present month-long showing, made a special trip to Carmel last week in order to collect the canvases comprising the artist's one-man exhibit just closed at the Carmel Art association gallery. While in Palo Alto Miss Morgan and her sister will be weekend house guests of Mr. and Mrs. de Lemos in their home at Waverly Place. Before returning to Carmel they will spend several days in San Francisco.

Eventually

Something over a year ago, the Pine Cone printed an extract from an oration by Henry Ward Beecher, submitted by Dr. James E. Crowther who had heard it from the lips of a fellow-student in the college public-speaking class 38 years ago. In submitting it to the Pine Cone he requested information as to where the oration might be found in print.

Last Monday morning the answer came from Mr. John E. Montague who had been receiving the Pine Cone while residing in the redwood country of Northern California, and saw the request. He has now returned to his home near Robles Del Rio, and brought Dr. Crowther the book containing the oration. It is the "New National Fifth Reader," published sixty years ago by A. S. Barnes & Co. On page 170 begins the oration, of which the following is the quoted part:

"This nation has a banner, too, and wherever it streamed abroad, men saw daybreak bursting on their eyes, for the American Flag has been the symbol of liberty, and men rejoiced in it. Not another flag on the globe had such an errand, or went forth upon the seas, carrying everywhere, the world around, such hope for the captive and such glorious tidings.

The stars upon it were to the pining nations like the morning stars of God, and the stripes upon it were beams of morning light.

As at early dawn the stars stand first, and then it grows light, and then, as the sun advances, that light breaks into banks and streamlines of color, the glowing red and intense white striving together and ribbing the horizon with bars effulgent. So on the American Flag, stars and beams of many-colored lights shine out together. And wherever the flag comes, and men behold it, they see in its sacred emblazonry no rampant lion and fierce eagle, but only light, and every fold indicative of liberty."

SUNSET SCHOOL NOTES

Cafeteria Party

Last Friday the cafeteria workers had a Valentine party. We played a game and then we had ice cream, cup cakes, and cookies! After we finished eating, Mrs. Hart picked two helpers to pass out Valentines. We played another game and then the bell rang.

My Fishing Trip

On Saturday, the 5th of February, I went fishing. I got down to Carmel River about 10:30. All I had for bait was a few salmon eggs but when I got there a man gave me a little bit of live bait. I fished a while but didn't get anything so I moved down closer to the river's mouth.

About five minutes later I had a couple of bites. The next time I cast in I caught a fish. It certainly was fun to land that fish. It was about two feet long and was a female. I got a whole quart of eggs to use for bait. I guess I was pretty lucky for about ten minutes later I caught another one about the same length. The two weighed around nine to ten pounds. The second one was a male, I think, he gave more of a fight than she.

A girl and I cleaned them there on the beach. I had to wait all the rest of the day for my friend to come to get me because I had caught my limit. Last night we had a steelhead fish dinner.

—Dick Nidever, grade 6

A Rainy Day

Yesterday when I went out, The rain was pouring down the spout, It's still so very, very, wet, The water has not gone away yet. The wind was blowing all around, Making the leaves fall to the ground.

The fence was almost washed away But Dad came out and made it stay. The tiny plants were almost drowned Except the ones on higher ground.

—Edward Goodrich, grade 6

My Favorite Sport

My favorite sport is fishing in the season. Down at the Carmel River there used to be small steelhead trout, but now there are twenty pound salmon. When I was down there last Saturday, I saw a salmon trying to go upstream to the river. A while later a man caught it. The man had already about six and gave me two and his friend two. Brother you have to follow those fish!

—Robert Sterling, grade 5

February

This is the month of many holidays, St. Valentine's, Washington's and Lincoln's birthdays, St. Valentine, a good man indeed, Of whom so many stories we read. And Washington a brave man too Who helped bring freedom to you, Lincoln, the man who freed the slaves, And whom we respect in many ways.

—Barba Jean Templin, grade 6

Homer

Homer was born sometime before 900 B.C. No one knows when or where he was born. He was a gigantic person, blind, powerful and poor. He wrote many poems and stories but the most famous ones were the "Iliad and the Odyssey." He wandered from town to town chanting them to the music of his lyre. Homer was about the best poet that ever lived.

—Louis A. Rudd, grade 6

Sweden in War Time

Sweden is surrounded with countries that are at war and so she can't import anything. She has to manufacture things for herself. In Sweden there are lots of trees so they use them. They make coffee out of sawdust and ground dandelion roots. They put cinnamon oil on sawdust and make cinnamon for their cakes.

—Mitchell Steenhoudt, grade 6

The Mother

In ancient Greece, the mother's life was completely in the home. She would tend the work of the slaves. She took care of the linen and the other supplies. She could weave, embroider and spin. The women of Greece could visit with friends but they were not allowed to have parties.

—Joan Daniels, grade 6

Being Examined

Today I was examined, and I found out why I always have an ear ache, why my eyes are bad, and why I am always hot. It was because my tonsils are infected.

After school I am going to ask my mother if she will try to have them taken out. Boy will I be glad when they are out!

Nancy Krupocki, grade 4

"Micky"

I have a pup named "Micky." Sometimes, when he plays, he is sticky. We are going to get him a collar. When he gets it, he may holler. Micky is my pup. Round and fat like a cup.

Telfer to Play Nazi Villain in Broadway Production

Ronald Telfer, well remembered in Carmel from his popular play readings and his direction of First Theatre productions, is now rehearsing in the cast of Thank You, Svoboda, which opened in Boston last night and will have its New York premiere at the Mansfield Theatre on February 28.

Sam Jaffe plays the leading role and Ronald Telfer has been cast as a Nazi villain—a part assigned to him, he is convinced, because of his tow-colored hair. Between rehearsals, he is engaged in writing French dialogue for the foreign versions of several Hollywood films, notably Claudia.

Turn FOOD

STRENGTH

You can't be a dawn buster riding a tractor or go sweating through a work-shift in a war plant...hour after hour...on food that fails to fire up your energy. No, sir...your grub has to keep your stomach contented with a staying quality that keeps delivering effective working strength.

EAT THE RIGHT
FOR

Food for physical fitness depends first, upon buying the right kinds of foods and second, on how you take care of it and how you prepare it to preserve greatest nutritive values.

When you buy food think of all your meals for the day so that your family gets the proper nutritionally balanced diet. Be guided by the Government recommended chart of the 7-Basic Foods which supply the essential protein, vitamins and minerals for better than average diet.

After you buy your day's food take care of it. Keep it under proper refrigeration.... Fresh vegetables for example, quickly lose vitamin content if exposed to room temperature. Cook foods according to correct time and temperature and for most vegetable cooking use little or no water. A thorough steam-through is the proper thing to do.

America is depending upon the full output of her Home Front workers. Keep your muscles strong, your head clear and your eyes bright by eating the right kinds of food.

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

Who'd Have Thought It?

Spring fever is overwhelming our revered Seniors—or perhaps it's love! At any rate, something upset the equanimity of our most exclusive class, for on Thursday afternoon, the eighth graders out played, out jumped and out fought a bewildered and disjointed Senior team to the tune of 20-12. The eighth grader's chests are puffed to the bursting point, and the upper classmen's faces are very, very red. James Greenan acted as referee for the game.

The lineups for the teams were as follows: Eighth grade: Owen Greenan, Lee Winslow, Rod Dewar, Lew McCreery, Mat Schmutz, Mike Monahan, Murrey Wight and Ray Wermuth. The Seniors: Louie Levinson, Orval Mead, Bob Holm, Emile Passailaigue and John Graham.

"The Play's the Thing"

With drama in their blood and the theater in their hearts, the advanced drama class got under way this week. These students have considerable experience in histrionics, and many are preparing to enter this field. The members of this class are: Jim Jensen, Claire Warner, Oliver Bassett, Anne McElroy, and Carol Walker. Owing to the crowded program Miss Beeson is kindly supervising the class after school.

Book Drive

The California Library Association is sponsoring a "Send Your Book to War" campaign, which started February 1, and will continue for the duration. February 15, to March 1 has been set aside to stress the great importance of books for our boys in the armed forces. The students and faculty of Carmel high are already well under way in this campaign.

Our quota is at least one book from every student.

—Stanley Ewig

Friday Assembly

Last Friday, February 11, a meeting of the Student Body was held in the cafeteria. Russell Bohlik, new president, called the meeting to order. In the course of the meeting the Minute Man Flag was presented to the school by the United States Treasury Department for the work we have done on the Stamp and Bond Drive. Walter Warren, new assembly commissioner, arranged the assembly, and introduced Dr. Edward Sisson.

The talk given by Dr. Sisson to the Student Body was appreciated by all the students and faculty members present. His interesting tales about Abraham Lincoln amused and amazed the listeners. We all hope to hear Dr. Sisson again next year. —Diana Daniells

Income Tax

It's only one month to go before you make out your March 15th income tax returns.

Mrs. Johnson and Miss McNamara have told us they will assist by showing examples of properly made out forms to those students who have a study period or can make special arrangements with their teachers.

Mr. Getsinger will do the same in his sixth period Basic Math class next week, Monday, Wednesday and Friday. He also wishes to point out that they will not assist anyone in making out forms, except to show how these sample forms are made out.

Touch Marbles

"The footpath to Avernum is paved with good intention," said the Sages. If this is true, the Carmel basketball teams added a few more paving blocks to the aforesaid path last Friday. Our intentions were noble, but we can't win 'em all.

The lightweights played a hard game on a small court. It was a very slow scoring game, and it seemed that our boys just were not on the beam. The King City lads were not too good in the first half themselves, but they warmed up in the last half, ending the game with the Carmel Babes, trailing to the score of 12-20.

I am sorry to say the heavyweights did not do much better, although the Carmel Padres gave the King City Mustangs a real fight in the last half of the game. The first half of the game was like the lightweight game, very slow scoring. Our boys on both teams tried hard, and I want you to know it hurts to lose one, much less both games, after going so far. There is no doubt about it that those King City boys are good, but we like to think that the small court had a lot to do with our boys losing out to the score of 18-24.

Next week our game will be played here at home when we tangle with Gonzales. The Heavies beat them before, and I am sure that we can do it again. So far in the league, Carmel has lost three and won three, not counting the time we beat Salinas in a non-league game for the Bardarson Memorial Fund earlier this season.

Red Cross

By HELEN A. FIELD

The Production Room of the Carmel Chapter of the American Red Cross has just finished a six months' quota and shipped the completed articles to the Area Office in San Francisco. The work was for hospitalized servicemen.

Among other things sent to the Area Office were 720 filled kit bags, dear to the hearts of servicemen going overseas. In each bag are to be found:

Paper and envelopes, pencil, deck of playing cards, package of cigarettes, package of hard candies, shoeshine cloth, pair brown shoe laces, package of razor blades, paper bound mystery story, housewife for sewing, soapbox with cake of soap.

Mrs. Vernon Goodwin, Chairman for Production of Carmel Chapter, of the American Red Cross, says we always need workers for hand and machine sewing for the servicemen. She also expects a supply of yarn for knitted goods to come in soon.

The Production Room is open from 10 to 4—Mondays through Fridays. Each day there is an Officer of the Day who will be happy to welcome those who come to help with the sewing. She will assist each one who comes to find the kind of work she can and would like to do.

$21,925 Raised at Carmel Filipino War Bond Rally

Philippine Islands was the only Christian country in the Orient—famous in its songs, stories, romance, and a proud product of American democracy in the Pacific. The American Flag which stood for American principles and the Filipino Flag which stood for its tradition and geography, flew side by side over Philippine soil. Nowadays, those two flags no longer exist there but instead, a new flag stands in its place—the Japanese flag which is a symbol of treachery and barbarism."

The Filipino hosts, with traditional hospitality provided their guests with a buffet supper of broiled chicken. Time was found for dancing to the music of the Filipino orchestra, and during the evening a jitterbug contest, organized by Ken Carleton, with prizes of $25 war bonds provided by the Philippine Community, was staged. Among those seen applauding on the side lines were Mrs. Joseph J. Stilwell, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Godwin, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Abernethy, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Low, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Lafrenz.

The Filipino Community, aware that a large part of their overwhelming success is due to the cooperation of their American friends have asked the Pine Cone to convey their thanks to the Carmel citizens who so generously helped them in their patriotic undertaking. One gift, a $25 bond donated to the Community by Bob Harbort, especially touched the Filipinos. Harbort's parents, like so many of their own relatives and friends, are still in the Philippines, prisoners of the Japs.

Harry Haskell

Private funeral services were held on Tuesday morning in the Howell Mission Chapel, Monterey, Rev. J. E. Crowther officiating, for Dr. Harry H. Haskell, who died on Monday in his Carmel Woods home at the age of 75, following an illness of seven weeks.

Dr. Haskell was a native of Boston, Massachusetts, a graduate of Harvard University with the class of 1890 and of the Harvard Medical School in 1893. During the course of many years' practice, he became a nationally recognized authority in his chosen specialty, ophthalmology, developing techniques for eye surgery that attracted wide interest in the medical world.

He retired from active practice in 1920 and from 1936 until the death of Mrs. Haskell in 1942, lived in Pasadena. For the past two years he has made his home in Carmel with his daughter, Miss Marcia Haskell.

In addition to his daughter, Dr. Haskell is survived by a sister, Miss Margaret Haskell and a brother, Mr. Clarence G. Haskell, both of Boston, and two cousins, Major Gerald Totten and Miss Violet Whitney, who live in Carmel.

Whittlesey Announces Candidacy

two years continued and thinks a public swimming pool built at a proper location would relieve the temptation of visitors to risk the dangers of ocean swimming.

Questioned as to his feelings on the current agitation among the townspeople for a club room for 'teen age boys and girls, Whittlesey said, "With the war dislocating family ties, upsetting homelife, I believe the club room would give the kids a feeling of roots in the community that they so sadly need." He thought that a responsible group of citizens should have the club well in hand as it could easily get out of control, and he believed that the city should contribute financially to the maintenance of the club room, as far as it was able, at least turning over the money that is no longer being donated to the Bach Festival.

Whittlesey, born in New York City in 1913 is a graduate of Williams College in Massachusetts and of Stanford University Law School.
